

RoseMarie Rita Palermo

June 8, 1936 - November 9, 2016

RoseMarie Rita Palermo (nee Paparo), age 80 of Clementon (Gloucester Township), NJ, passed away on Wednesday, November 9, 2016. Devoted wife of George J. Palermo, Sr. Beloved mother of Deborah Gaynor and the late George J. Palermo, Jr. Loving grandmother of George Miraglia (Jill) and Christina McGlinchey (Patrick). Proud great-grandmother of George and James Miraglia, and Scarlett, Simone, Jude, and Stella McGlinchey.

RoseMarie was born in Philadelphia, PA and was a longtime Gloucester Township resident. She spent her life raising a beautiful family in a job title she liked to call “domestic engineer”. She was exceptional at cooking, among her amazing dishes was the all-time favorite, fried hot peppers. Baking was yet another skill she not only excelled at, but perfected, making Christmas cookies and canolli cakes like no other. RoseMarie not only kept a meticulous home, but always ensured she looked her best every single day, no matter what. She was a thoughtful person who was always the first to send a card complete with stickers, and never once forgot a birthday. She lived for her grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

“ Rose was such a wonderful person with a stunning personality . I remember her mother as another great Lady from old school South Philly. May they both Rest in Eternal Peace with the Lord , and may the Family find Peace with this terrible loss.

“ I was very blessed at one time in my life to visit Rosemarie with Debbie many times, especially when Grandmom was living with Rosemarie and George. The minute you walked in the front door you felt so welcome. I can personally vouch that her cooking and baking were surpassed by none. In fact at first, I really thought her cookies and cakes came from a gourmet bakery and soon found she was the gourmet baker. Above all this, however, this beautiful lady (both inside and out) seemed to have so much love to give to anyone who came in contact with her with nothing expected in return. To all those in her family that she loved so much, my prayer is that the wonderful memories Rosemarie has left with them will one day soon, help to overcome the pain of loss. May God bless the family at this time and may he bring them the peace they need to get through this difficult time. Much love to all!
